Chapter 1: Welcome

Welcome to Using Adobe® LiveCycle® Mosaic 9.5. Mosaic aggregates the applications you use everyday into a single, personalized view. It increases productivity and improves decision-making by giving you real-time information that’s selected and presented for the work you do. Mosaic applications can also reduce repetitive tasks by automatically sharing and updating data among its component applications.

This guide provides detailed information on how to access a Mosaic application.
Chapter 2: Starting a Mosaic application

You access LiveCycle Mosaic applications using either a web browser or Mosaic desktop client you install on your computer.

Depending on your Mosaic environment, you need a user name and password provided by your Mosaic administrator to log in.

Install the desktop client

The Mosaic desktop client application allows you to access Mosaic applications using Adobe AIR® technology.

After you install the desktop client, you can access it using the Microsoft® Windows® Start menu (for example, Start > All Programs > Adobe LiveCycle Mosaic). You can also start it using the desktop icon.

❖ Double-click the Mosaic.air file provided by your Mosaic administrator and follow the installation instructions that appear.

Start an application using the desktop client

The desktop client requires Adobe AIR 2.0.2 or later. To download the latest version, go to the download site at get.adobe.com/air/.

1 Do one of the following:
   • Click All Programs > Adobe LiveCycle Mosaic.
   • Double-click the Mosaic desktop icon.
2 Type the URL, including port number, of the Mosaic server (for example, http://example.com:8080), and then click Connect.
3 Enter the user name and password provided by your Mosaic administrator and click Login.
4 On the MyApps tab, scroll until the application you want to open appears.
5 In the application item, click ☰.

Start an application using a web browser

Before you access LiveCycle Mosaic applications using a browser, ensure that Adobe Flash® Player 10.1 or later is installed. To download the latest version, go to the download site at get.adobe.com/flashplayer/.

1 In the browser address field, type the application URL provided by your Mosaic administrator.
2 Enter the user name and password provided by your Mosaic administrator and click Login.
